BOVRIL AT THE FRONT.

Bovril has played such a conspicuous part in South Africa that it forms no inconsiderable feature of the story. The "Lancet" has had frequent references to Bovril in the reports of the officers of the Royal Army Medical Corps. Nearly every newspaper correspondent has had to refer to Bovril to make his story complete. Rudyard Kipling and Baden-Powell have written their Bovril stories. Over 500 British hospitals and similar public institutions use and prescribe Bovril, not beef tea, but Bovril.

The reason is not far to seek. Bovril is a nourisher as well as a stimulant. It contains the albumen and fibrine, the sustaining properties of the beef. It is this fact, together with its absolute purity, that commends Bovril to physicians and scientists, and proves in practice what it demonstrates in analysis. [C]

THE GREAT NILE DAM.

Lord Kitchener recently returned to Wady Halfa from visiting the mighty barrage across the Nile, now rapidly approaching completion at Assuan. A month hence the Duke of Connaught, in his progress to India, will formally declare the works open and thus officially mark the finishing of the great scheme which is the noblest monument to the beneficent work which Great Britain has been enabled to accomplish in Egypt. The idea of a colossal reservoir on the Upper Nile to render Lower Egypt independent of the eccentricities of the Nile flood, long haunted men's minds. The late Sir Samuel Baker was one of the warmest advocates, and with extraordinary persistence he indicated Assuan as the most suitable spot for the weir to cross the river. After exhaustive investigations, Mr. Wilcocks, the then head of the Egyptian Irrigation Department, arrived at the same conclusion, that Assuan was the best site for holding up the water above the First Cataract; but there was one grave objection to this scheme. Ptolemy II. had built a temple of Isis, whose temple the legend says of the rise of the Nile, on the Island of Philae, and that Island would have been submerged if the Nile had been held up to the extent proposed. Archaeologists rose in arms at the bare suggestion of such an act of "vandalism," and the bitter controversy which raged round the question will long be remembered. "What is a temple," said the Engineers, "in comparison with a work insuring the prosperity of millions of human beings?" "Are there commercial motives," cried the archaeologists, "to override everything in this world, and priceless monument of antiquity to be lost to mankind in order that a few more falls be made grow cotton and millet?" Various solutions were advanced. One was to surround Philae by a masonry wall as strong as the dam itself. Another to raise the island bodily above the level of the reservoir; whilst Mr. Wilcocks suggested the removal of the temple's stone by stone and their erection upon another island secure against submergence. The difficulty was decided, as such questions generally are, by a compromise. The head of water to be held up is considerably less than that originally contemplated; but the reservoir will give Egypt all the water she can use for many years to come. The engineering problem, however, was but half the difficulty; owing to the burdensome restrictions of the Caisse de la Dette Egypt was unable to find the necessary capital, though the utility of the work was unquestioned, and it was certain to prove immediately remunerative. How a way out of the apparent cul de sac was forced by a syndicate of British capitalists headed by Sir Ernest Cassel, who agreed to build the work unaided, and receive in return £160,000 a year, for thirty years after its completion, is one of the most interesting studies in modern finance. Egypt pays for the barrage out of revenue, and although the ultimate cost will be more than five million sterling, this is little more than half its actual value.

The principal work is, of course, the giant wall which arrests the flow of the Nile at Assuan. A mile and a quarter long, 100 feet wide at its base, with a maximum height of 130 feet above the foundation level this contains no less than a million tons of masonry. It is pierced by 170 openings, mostly 23 feet high by 6 feet 6 inches wide, which, when subject to pressure, are closed by sluices of the well known Stoney roller pattern. These sluices will, during the Nile flood, have to pass through 1,500 tons of water a minute. The masonry of the dam is of local granite set in Portland cement, and the interior of rubble set by hand. The reservoir, when full, contains a thousand million tons of water, or enough for one year's full domestic supply for every city, town and village in the United Kingdom, with its 42 millions of inhabitants. Navigation is provided for by a ladder of 4 locks on the west side of the river, of most solid construction, and each 260 feet long by 32 feet wide. Subsidiary to the great barrage is a second dam at Assiut, 350 miles nearer Cairo. This is designed to be regulatory rather than as a distributor. Were it not dwarfed by the gigantic undertaking higher up the river, as an engineering achievement, it would have attracted more general attention. The structure is rather more than half a mile long, with 111 arched openings, founded upon a masonry platform. The whole of these openings are lined with cast-iron 14 inch thick, so that no stone can be torn out or piece of masonry dislodged by the constant impact of large volumes of water at high velocity. At the busiest season it employed 1,000 men, working at high pressure in a temperature of 118 deg. in the shade. The dam was finished last spring, and the irrigation of lands in Middle Egypt was very greatly improved, whilst an additional area of 300,000 acres was brought under irrigation, or was reclaimed from the desert.

The mere enunciation of these figures, colossal as they are, conveys an entirely inadequate idea of the engineering difficulties which have been overcome. "Any practical man," said Sir Benjamin Baker, Past President of the Institute of Civil Engineers, in a recent paper read before the Royal Institution, "standing on the verge of one of the catarract channels hearing and seeing the apparently irresistible torrents of foaming water thundering down, would regard the putting in of foundations of 40 feet below the head of the catarract in the short season available each year, as an appalling undertaking." As soon as work was begun, an unpleasant surprise, which might have had disastrous results, awaited the contractors. The original Engineer's report gave sound rock everywhere at a very convenient level for the foundations of the dam. Directly operations were commenced it was found that the rock was unsound and friable to a considerable depth, which necessitated carrying the foundations in some places more than 40 feet deeper than was originally allowed for in the contract. This involved a large increase in the cost; and Lord Cromer was informed that the work would require extra money and time, but that it could be done. The reply was characteristic of the man; the dam, he said, must be completed, whatever the time and cost. Despite the "appalling" nature of the task and the further difficulties encountered as progress was made, the contractor, Sir John Aird, has finished the work within a year of the stipulated time. The contract was signed in 1898, the foundation stone laid by the Duke of Connaught in February of 1899, and the Egyptian Government entered into full possession of the works a year before the prescribed period expires. We hear so much in these days of the decay of British enterprise and the decadence of British industry, that we may be pardoned for dwelling upon the magnificent results here achieved in circumstances of such enormous difficulty. The creation of British engineers, the work of a British contractor, financed by British capitalists, and the friend of the many years of profound statecraft which have restored prosperity to Egypt and re-established her credit—the Assuan barrage is the noblest monument to the veiled protectorate, Great Britain has exercised in Egypt through good and evil report. Its immediate benefits will be incalculable. Lower Egypt is now rendered secure alike against an abnormally Low Nile or a flood, and immense extension of cultivation is practicable. Nor will the work end here. As the Assuan barrage supplements the dam of Mongel Bay at Cairo, so will it be followed, in good time, by further reservoirs higher up the river, bringing the whole of the Nile valley under the plough, and establishing a free waterway from Uganda to the sea.—Times of India.

THE WORLD'S GOLD PRODUCTION.

The report of the Director of the Mint of the world's precious metal production in 1901 shows a slight increase in the aggregate output of gold and an almost corresponding decrease in that of silver. The former is placed at $263,374,700, or $5,660,000 in excess of the production of 1900; the latter at 174,998,573 ounces, or 3,701,223 ounces less than the output of the previous year. The United States stands at the head of the list of gold-producing countries with $78,666,700 to its credit, and second in the list of silver producers, the output of the latter metal aggregating, at its commercial value, $33,128,400. Mexico produced $1,365,500 more silver than the United States last year.

The African gold production last year was only $9,089,500, over half a million dollars less than that of 1900. But the war in South Africa prevented the prosecution of gold mining in the Transvaal. Since peace has been restored in that section the gold output has been steadily increasing there, and in another year probably it will reach the yield of 1800—$73,227,100—and possibly more. The best informed South African mining experts assume that a maximum of $125,000,000 will ultimately be reached by the Rand mines. When that happens the world's production of gold will aggregate approximately $380,000,000 per annum, assuming that other gold-producing countries maintain their present output.

The increase in the gold production of 1901 over that of 1900 has come chiefly from Russian and Australasian gold fields, each of which has added approximately $2,500,000 to the output. The increase to the Russian gold output has undoubtedly come from the Amoor river district and Manchuria, over both of which Russia obtained jurisdiction during the past two years.

A comparison of the imports and exports of gold to and from the United States shows that we are practically absorbing the output of our own gold fields. The total imports of gold last year amounted to $54,761,880, and the exports to $57,783,393. Thus only $3,021,513 of the $78,666,700 of the gold produced in the country went out of it. In other words, $75,645,187 was added last year to the wealth of the United States by its own gold mines, and this has gone into circulation and been absorbed in the arts.

The Venezuelan Question.

LONDON, December 17th.
Hon. John Hay, U. S. Secretary of State, is pressing for a reply to the arbitration proposals.

President Roosevelt, and the U. S. Cabinet yesterday discussed Venezuela, but arrived at no conclusion modifying the attitude of the United States hitherto displayed.

The Senate, in a temperate debate, commended the attitude of the United States.

Russia and Manchuria.

Reuter's Peking correspondent telegraphs that Russia is pressing China to assent to the establishment of a Russian Customs Postal service in Manchuria independent of the Chinese Maritime Customs postal service.

The Sugar Convention.

Mr. Balfour says that he can see no reason to defer the ratification of the Sugar Convention. He would ratify however on the distinct understanding that it rests with England only to penalize her colonies, and while he would regret the colonies granting bounties, he would not blink himself to penalize them for doing so.

Lord Lansdowne on the Situation.

At the dinner of the Union Club, Lord Lansdowne, Foreign Secretary, deprecated inoperative anti-Italians. He was glad that German and British sailors were acting side by side. He regretfully denied the imaginative statement that every difficulty between France and Great Britain was on the eve of settlement but such reports, he said indicated that the wind of public feeling was blowing in the right direction. He added that Italy is giving us invaluable facilities in Somalia.

The Chinese Telegraph Administration.

PEKING, 15th December

According to Native official report the Imperial decree commanding the transfer of the Chinese Telegraph Administration to the sole control of the Imperial Government was entirely due to the advice of Viceroy Yuan Shih-kai, and it is further stated that the control of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Co., will also, sooner or later, be taken from Sheng Kung-pao and handed over to the management of the Imperial High Commissioner of the Peking Administration.

[The Imperial Decree referred to is printed in another column.—Ed., H.K.T.]

The Foreign Loans of Viceroy Chang.

Influential officials in Peking are unanimous in condemning the policy of Viceroy Chang Chih-tung in making foreign loans. When Viceroy Yuan Shih-kai had his audience of their Majesties the other day he also gave it as his opinion that all the enterprises of Viceroy Chang lacked substantiality. Further, that if Chang should be permitted to make more loans from foreigners in the future, he (Yuan) feared that all commercial and industrial affairs in Hupoh would eventually fall into the hands of outsiders.

A Proposed Ministry of Education.

Their Majesties have decided to establish a Ministry of Education, with Chang Pei-hsi (at present Chancellor of the Peking University) as its first President.

HONGKONG AND WHAMPOA DOCKS.

ABUNDANCE OF WORK.

Shareholders will be pleased to hear that the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Co. have an abundance of work on hand and just now there is a great demand for the various dry-docks.

The new tugboat Robert Cook went on a trial trip this afternoon and, though an account of it has not yet arrived as we go to press, we feel confident it was successful.

The ships at present in the docks are mostly undergoing the usual scrapings, paintings and overhauls. The German warship Friedrich is having a new propeller shaft (one of her three propellers, and we hear that the repairs to the Thra Nung are likely to be finished in about a week.

CHRISTMAS CHEER.

AROUND THE SHOPS.

The Christmas-present buyers are now out and about searching for novelties, and should experience no difficulty in securing bargains. There are grand opportunities in the show rooms of Hongkong for the lady or gentleman, with a few spare dollars who desires to make the season an excuse for bestowing some mark of his or her affections on friends or relatives. Happily there are not a few who take a keen interest in the inspection of shops in Christmas garb, and in the business establishments of Hongkong they should be able to obtain a good selection of presents. The following is an instalment of a few of the stores, where customers in search of bargains may be assured of getting what they desire, and that at the lowest figure:—

MESSRS. GRACA AND CO.

In their own special line of business, Messrs. Graca and Company, stamp dealers, do not lag behind the times, as a visit to their stall in the corridor of the Hongkong Hotel will convince any one. The introduction of pictorial post cards not so very long ago created quite a little furore among collectors, and Messrs. Graca's special selection of Hongkong views reproduced by the three-colour process is quite a feature of their excellent show. All bear appropriate greetings for the season, and at the price at which they are offered, the stock is sure to be depleted by Christmas morning. Philatelists' every requirement, from stamp mounts to imperial albums, will be found at Messrs. Graca and Company.

MESSRS. KRUSE AND CO.

Messrs. Kruse and Co. are at present entering Father Christmas in the best of style, and a finer stock of suitable presents would be hard to find. Crowds of admiring visitors pass through the well-known premises admiring the fine collection of art bronzes, groups and statuettes, plaques, clocks, vases, toilet sets, lamps, liquor sets, dressing cases, tea sets and all other fancy and leather goods, including card cases, purses, cigar cases, sets of brushes, steel engravings, oil paintings, terracottas, Dresden-biscuitware, ostrich-leather and lace fans, meerschaum and amberware, decorations for Xmas trees, candles, incense burners, pambulators, tricycles, outdoor games and in fact toys of every description at prices to suit everybody. A visit should be made without loss of time to ensure getting the very article about which you have been puzzled for weeks past.

MESSRS. WILLIAM POWELL.

Among the firms who provide for the special requirements of the festive season Messrs. William Powell must take a high place. In their show rooms in Queen's Road Central will be found a treasure house of presents ranging from a rag doll to a coronation procession. Two large rooms are stocked with toys from floor to ceiling, and the kiddie of six to the knowing youngster of twelve would spend a delightful afternoon in 'look see piggin' alone, apart from the fact that his elders would come out laden with goods to be crammed into the indispensable Christmas stocking—if such a custom exists in these parts. The collection of dolls would almost put a 'Truth' show to the blush to say nothing of the hundreds of other articles such as—(they are all set out on the back page of the paper—Ed., H.K.T.) There are novelties for the ladies, novelties for the gentlemen, and novelties for everyone. Up to date, and a marked feature of the store, and no one can possibly be disappointed either at what they see or at what they have to pay to buy.

MESSRS. A. S. WATSON AND CO.

In Queen's Road Central there are shops and shops, and people bent on spending money are often at a loss to know where they can dispose of a few dollars to the best possible advantage. Messrs. A. S. Watson & Co deal in just the very article that one requires for a yuletide cumshaw, and the most fastidious purchaser ought to be delighted with a glance around the establishment. For instance, your friend may care about a box of cigars—all the best are for sale; a fine generally dabbles in perfumes—the best are going cheap while preparation should be made for the festive after-dinner pick-me-ups and medicine are always available. The store is worth a visit at all times, but just now in particular.

MESSRS. PRICE & CO.

Christmas hampers—the very thought is refreshing, and a glance through Messrs. Price & Co's catalogue of choice wines and spirits will be conducive to a very happy Christmas. The cellar may require replenishing, for if the bin is bare this coming Yuletide will be rid of much good cheer. This well-known firm is reported to be the cheapest and best in the market, and a visit to 42 Queen's Road Central will do the needful.

MESSRS. LANE, CRAWFORD AND CO.

Messrs. Lane, Crawford and Company have a fine display of Christmas presents such as fancy leather goods, electro-plated ware, decorative table glassware, pretty dessert services, meerschaum and briar pipes, gold and silver mounted amber cigar holders. Also a splendid variety of toys, including mechanical dolls, horses and carts; rocking horses, Noah's Arks and, in fact, everything necessary for nurseryland. The confectionery department contains a most delicious assortment of chocolates in fancy boxes, Tom Smith's Christmas crackers, bonbons, and candied fruits that tend to the enjoyment of the Xmas festivities.

R. C. F. DE MUNYON.

To-morrow is the opening day of Mr. C. E. Le Munyon's new store, No. 31 Des Voeux Rd., nearly opposite the Office of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company. Although this will be Mr. Le Munyon's first appearance in Hongkong, little introduction is needed as he is well known throughout China and the Far East, having branches of his large business in Shanghai, Peking, Canton, Tientsin, Singapore and Manila.

Mr. Le Munyon has a fine stock of photographic requisites and prepares photo-engravings, half tone, and collotype, and declares that, within the next few months, he will be the largest book publisher in the Orient. Yesterday a large stock of Eastman's Kodaks, films, printing out paper, developers, and a quantity of Bausch and Lomb lenses arrived from New York. Mr. Le Munyon has also been notified of some twenty other shipments consigned to him, which arrive within a few days. To-day, this enterprising merchant showed a reporter of the Hongkong Telegraph some of the souvenirs he intends to give the ladies who visit his store to-morrow. They are pretty water colours and give indications that artistic work in this colony has commenced a new era. (To be Continued.)

MEDICAL COLLEGE FOR WOMEN.

FIRST IN CHINA.

OPENED AT CAN-TON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

CANTON, 17th December.
The Medical College for Women, the first in China, was formally opened to-day by the United States Consul in the presence of a large audience numbering upwards of seven hundred. Most of the missionaries in Canton were present, a number of ladies from the Shamen and the Chinese officials from the Viceroy down were present either personally or by deputy. Among those noticed were the Prefect of Kwong Chau, the Provincial Judge, Provincial Treasurer, Grain Commissioner, the Nam Hoi, and a host of smaller officials. A guard of five hundred soldiers lined the streets in the neighbourhood of the College to do honour to the occasion. Besides the hundreds inside the Cuyler Memorial Church, where the opening exercises were conducted, four or five hundred others waited outside in the College grounds. Excellent addresses were delivered by Rev. T. W. Pearce of Hongkong, Rev. O. F. Wisner, D. D. President of the Canton Christian College, Rev. H. J. Stevens of the Lo don Mission and Rev. C. A. Nelson of the American Board Mission. One of the most enjoyable parts of the exercises was the singing by the medical students. After the exercises in the church were concluded, the officials and other guests inspected the College building and partook of refreshments provided for the occasion. The officials were loud in their praise of all they saw and expressed surprise that one lady could accomplish so much. No higher tribute can be paid to Dr. Fulton and none more nearly approaching the truth, than to say, as the Chinese do, that Dr. Fulton stands next to Dr. Kerr in the work she has done for them. For years she has conducted dispensaries and visited patients in their homes. Tens of thousands of Chinese women have been relieved of suffering by her ministrations. But during the eighteen years that she has given to China one idea has been constantly before her mind: the equipment of a complete institution for the suffering women of China. For this she has worked and her efforts are being crowned with success. Last June the hospital for women was completed and opened. It is already full to overflowing. To-day the Medical College building is open for students. Thirteen young women are studying. Some of these have nearly completed a five years' course. The applicants for admission next year number about sixty. Dr. Fulton intends to admit thirty to the classes. The building, however, will accommodate sixty. To complete the institution which Dr. Fulton proposes there remains the Training School for Nurses and a Hospital for Children. The money for these buildings has been largely provided and when the buildings are completed a better plant for medical missionary work will be difficult to find.

The preparing of plans and superintending of the erection of the buildings, as well as the care of the Hospital and the Medical students, has largely fallen upon Dr. Fulton to whom the credit of the success rightly belongs. The Hospital and College are the property of the American Presbyterian Mission and are splendidly located for the work they are intended to do. The Sai Kwan district is the residential part of the city. The streets are wide and the inhabitants are among the wealthiest and best educated of the Cantonese. They have taken kindly to the Hospital and Dr. Fulton and her assistants have a large practice in the homes of this part of the city. The opening of this College is an epoch making event in the history of missions in China. Canton may be behind North China in educational institutions, but she certainly takes the lead in the medical line.

In declaring the College open the United States Consul spoke as follows:—Ladies and Gentlemen. It is a great honour as well as a great plea are to me to be asked to preside at the opening of this, the first Women's Medical College in the Empire of China. This College is the gift of one man, an American, and a member of the Presbyterian Church, whose name I am sorry I cannot mention as he does not wish it to be known. In his becoming modesty, the donor follows the Scriptural saying: "Let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth." We are told that the "Greatest of all things is Charity." No greater Charity can be found than that which reaches those who cannot help themselves: the sick and the infirm. Next to the saving of the immortal soul, no one can have a higher calling than to devote his life to relieving human suffering and prolonging human life. This Woman's Medical College is the counterpart of the Woman's Hospital adjoining it, and at the opening of which a few months ago, many of you were present. This Hospital is a monument to the untiring work of one noble woman,—D. Mary Fulton, who has consecrated her life to helping her sisters in this vast Empire, where thousands of people perish annually owing to the want of knowledge of the modern scientific methods of medical treatment and surgery. The need of a Women's College of Medicine has been felt and the benefits to be derived therefrom will be a thousand fold. In the course of time the Graduates of this College will be scattered through the different provinces, giving comfort and relief in many households. In this country, a woman physician conforms with the highest ideas of Chinese propriety. In the sick-room, woman is a ministering angel. There, no man can take her place. The influence of her presence is a comfort that nothing else can give. Her gentle touch soothes the feverish brow. Her soft words of encouragement sustain us in times of greatest suffering, and in our last moments her consolation fortifies us to meet the inevitable end. Thus in raising the women of China to such a noble and unselfish standard, Dr. Fulton is undertaking one of the grandest tasks that has ever fallen to one of her sex. It is needless for me to dwell any longer upon the many and great benefits that such an institution as this will have upon the people of China. The opening of this College is but the beginning, and I hope that many similar ones will be built and equipped, so that all may reap the great benefits which they offer. I now have the honour of declaring the Women's Medical College formally opened, and to wish it every success and prosperity for itself and its graduates and I sincerely trust that one and all, will give it the encouragement and support which such a praiseworthy and beneficial institution deserves.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE, HONGKONG.

OWING to the insufficiency of accommodation in the present building and the increasing demand for admission, it has been found necessary to extend the wings of the main building and to enlarge the Chinese department by an additional storey with two wings. The estimated cost will amount to over $5,000. To cover these expenses we appeal to the liberality of all friends of Education. The establishment has been in existence for the last 25 years and is open to all classes. Much of the clerical work of the city is carried on by its past pupils. As this is the first time we have applied for assistance we expect a generous response. The names of our most liberal Benefactors will be inscribed upon marble tablets, as a lasting testimony of their generosity.
